

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Former New York MTA Official Joins MV Transportation to manage WMATA call center

Washington, DC – September 10, 2007 --- MV Transportation, Inc. is proud to announce Millard L. “Butch” Seay has joined the company as General Manager responsible for the management and oversight the Washington Metropolitan Area Transportation Authority (WMATA) MetroAccess call center.

“We are excited to have Butch on our team,” said Jon Monson, MV’s Chief Executive Officer. “His transit experience will be quite invaluable to MV and the WMATA call center.”

Butch’s public transit career spans more than 35 years. He began his career in 1970 as a part-time traffic checker and management trainee with the WV&M Bus Company in Arlington, Virginia. In 1972 he became a full-time employee of the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA). Butch was with WMATA from 1972 to 1985 in a variety of planning and managerial positions. In 1985, he was hired by New York City Transit as a Senior Director in Operations Planning a position Butch held until April 1993 when he returned to Washington as the Director of Planning for WMATA.

In July 1996 Butch returned to New York as the Senior Vice President of Buses for New York City Transit. Under his leadership the Department of Buses experienced many significant changes and successfully met many different challenges. Under his leadership, the department successfully managed one of the largest increases in service in the history of the Transit Authority. During his tenure at MTA, his department established a number of nationally recognized programs in the areas of bus safety, environmental management, and emissions reduction.

Based in Fairfield, California, MV is the largest private provider of paratransit services and the largest privately-owned transportation contracting firm in the United States. The company employs more than 11,000 dedicated transit professionals and operates more than 180 paratransit, fixed-route, shuttle and Medicaid contracts in 27 states.
